

ACCESSDATA® ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Hands-on experience using a forensic suite of tools, trusted worldwide.

What is the AD Academic Program?

We believe that hands-on experience is essential to preparing digital forensics students for a successful future in the field. The Academic Program provides colleges and universities with the necessary tools to offer state-of-the-art digital forensics or litigation support training. The program provides real-world knowledge that will give students an advantage when applying for their first digital investigation or litigation support job.

What does the Academic Program include?

- One Network License Service CodeMeter dongle with software licenses for up to 30 students, plus 1 instructor license.
- The FTK® Reference Manual, the Forensic Toolkit® suite of applications, and sample evidence files that can be used for lab work.
- Authorization for institution's bookstore to order the reference manuals and resell to students.

Take advantage of large-scale exposure for your college or university, information on the most up-to-date processes and best practices and the most current AD software knowledge to impart on your students.
